

Stacia C. Aylward, Zelos Chief Executive Officer

Stacia C. Aylward is an executive leader with broad professional experience in envisioning and leading programs, projects and teams; pursuing profitability; conducting research; and developing client relationships using proven methodologies in many government and technical fields, including economics, education, healthcare, housing, non-profit governance, IT and law.

As Zelos CEO, Stacia has facilitated workshops and meetings for executive leaders and staff in governments and non-profits on a variety of topics and to achieve specific purposes. She teaches one-day workshops on maximizing meetings, performance measurement, and more. She is also the visionary behind PATHZ – A Professional Growth Challenge[®], a set of tangible tools to help individuals develop the intangible skills needed to excel in the workplace. Last, she manages all Zelos finances, contracts, insurance and human resources with a compliance and customer focus.